Transco Annual Report Calls For Clear National Energy Policy

HOUSTON, Texas - March 18 - The nation badly needs a comprehensive energy policy based on today's realities and tomorrow's requirements, Transco Companies, Inc., has indicated in its just-released annual report for 1974.

Transco's president, W. J. Bowen in his letter to stockholders, called for three actions to allow the interstate gas industry to meet the needs of the consumer: 1) top priority to allowing interstate pipelines to buy onshore natural gas competitively by deregulating the price of new natural gas; 2) reduction in time required for companies to obtain governmental approvals for energy projects; and 3) acceleration in leasing offshore areas, including those off the Atlanta coast, for oil and gas exploration.

Citing Transco's gas supply difficulties, Bowen outlined the various actions the company is taking to cope with the situation and assured stockholders Transco will utilize all its corporate strength to overcome its current problems.

Transco Companies, Inc., an energy-supply company, has 66,000 stockholders of its 22,281,412 common shares. The stock has been approved for listing on the New York Stock Exchange on April 10. Through its wholly owned subsidiary, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation, it owns and operates an interstate pipeline system for the purchase, sale, and transportation of natural gas.

The Houston-based company's main system extends from the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coast to the New York - New Jersey - Philadelphia metropolitan area. Through other subsidiaries it is engaged in exploration for hydrocarbons both onshore and offshore in the U.S. and is pursuing projects for obtaining pipeline - quality gas from synthetic and supplemental sources.
